The Institute for Education in collaboration with Willingness Team is offering educators, parents and guardians the opportunity to join free online sessions: Parenting in the age of Tik Tok - sexuality and relationship education for parents.

Sex is everywhere. Our children are getting conflicting messages about their sexuality and relationships all the time. This is not call for alarm but an invitation to understand better what our children are being exposed to and equip them with the skills, knowledge, and attitude needed to stay safe. These sessions will explore different trends in sexuality and how to best address them with your children.

The key speaker is Mr Matthew Bartolo who is an international speaker about the subject of sex. Matthew's diverse training gives him the multi-modal and multi-disciplinary skills needed to lead his clinical group of professionals: Willingness Team. The Willingness Team is one of the largest teams in private practice in Malta and offers diverse services and training related to family, sex and health.
